Protecting Your Goods in Self Storage, Rental Vehicle or Freight Carrier

Routinely, items are stacked on top of each other. You may provide old blankets or other padding of sufficient thickness to protect your goods, or you can rent our commercial cotton moving pads for $10 each, with $7 refunded to you when you return them in good condition.

It's as important that you have space sufficient to meet your needs. Trying to fit too much into a space that's too small is frustrating, stressful, and can result in damages.

If your goods are going into a self-storage unit, a rental vehicle, PODs, or a common carrier (such as ABF), we require that you be present during the loading process. This is to witness that your goods are handled appropriately while under our control.

Since we have no further control after the loading in these cases, loss or damage claims must be made at the time of loading and will not be accepted thereafter.

If you are moving out of state we require a cash payment for all charges due at the end of the job.

Please sign below indicating you've read and agree to the terms of the above as well as that which on the reverse side are titled "Possible Savings and Risk Potential"
